Category:1983 births Category:Living people Category:French rappers Category:French songwriters Category:French male rappers Category:French people of Senegalese descentQ: Issue with Nested For Loops I'm trying to create a word guessing game. I want to give the player 15 guesses. When a guessed word is input into the correct word as would be determined by the correct guess counter, the guess word should become the new correct word. I will use an array to store the game's words which is all of the most common 5,000 words in the English language. Here is my current code. I want to modify it so that the correct word moves to the "correct_words" array. At the moment, the word stored in the correct_words array is being printed even when it is incorrect, which is how it should be. If I try to modify this so that the word is printed when it is correct, it only prints one word of the correct_words array and the program stops. Any suggestions? //A loop that collects the guesses the user inputs and //calls a function that counts them up until the correct word //is guessed.

for (int attempt = 1; attempt > input_guess; if (input_guess == correct_word) { num_correct =
num_correct + 1; correct_word = input_guess;
