In honor of Halloween, we have a very spooky movie treat for you: a terrifying cliffhanger from Scream 4! As you know from our first and second minutes of coverage of the Scream 4 trailer, Wes Craven is a big proponent of the horror film in a world of cookie-cutter campy schlock, which is one of the reasons he is the current president of the Horror Writers Association. But can he push the boundaries and still make a great movie? I think he can pull it off. In addition to being the president of the Horror Writers Association, Wes is also a screenwriter. In his first major venture as a writer, he co-wrote Scream 4 with an up-and-coming young filmmaker named Drew Goddard. Read up on their previous work here. But at present, we have another favorite thing to celebrate with a good scare: Adam Sandler. We've got nothing on him. See? Silly fun, guys! But, if you thought that the trailer did not have a good scare, you are absolutely, definitively, painfully wrong. In fact, it's a pretty great scream, actually. There's just something about having the camera on a pier in the middle of nowhere, with Adam Sandler wading out into the murky depths, that is exactly the right amount of jump-out-of-your-skin scary. Excuse us while we go and grab some popcorn! Does the trailer get you as freaked out as the original Scream? Hit the comments and let us know! More Scream 4: Asthma is a chronic disease characterized by bronchial hyper-responsiveness, mucosal inflammation, and reversible airway obstruction. The majority of patients with asthma have allergic bronchopulmonary aspergillosis (ABPA) characterized by non specific lymphocytic bronchitis and lymphadenopathy. The signs and symptoms of ABPA include cough, dyspnea, wheezing, and weight loss, and the diagnosis is based on the histological evidence of Aspergillus infection of the lung. ABPA is treated with corticosteroid medication, but only about 25% of patients achieve complete remission, and the complete remission rate 1cdb36666d
