Grim Dawn Multiplayer is a free-to-playÂ .Quirky Stories I was in a little boat under my front porch, fishing when my dad and his friend decided to come to my house to ask if they could borrow some of my bait. I told them that I had no bait because I'd already used it all. To this day, my dad will smile and say, "I knew you had some, you had to have some!" Bonus: Today in my Thinking Out Loud post, I thought I should throw in one more love story. It wasn't the one of yesterday. It's a little more personal, but I hope you still enjoy reading this one. My senior year, I decided to work on a paper that would have been required in my last year of business school. A classic case study. I figured that, being the first year to have read the book, the time was ripe. What could possibly go wrong? Well, my professor probably thought that I was crazy when I announced my plan. I was under my dining room table, with a student manual, photocopier, a photocopier refill, and several other school supplies and random course texts, when I felt a deep tugging in my pants pocket. I looked down and saw that the Mylar package had shifted over the back of my seat. The paper was under there, but I didn't quite know how to get at it. I held on to the back of the chair so I wouldn't fall in. Luckily, this occurred at a time when the chairs in my dorm 6d1f23a050
