We measured the levels of deaminated methionine in the serum of a group of patients with secondary glomerulonephritis. We found that these patients had higher levels of this substance in their serum than a group of healthy controls, and also than patients with different nephropathies. Since this metabolite derives from dietary protein, these results suggest that there are alterations in protein turnover in patients with secondary glomerulonephritis.Q: Error in passing data in json format i have the following error in the function and I'm not sure what the problem could be: Error: {"error":{"code":"OperationNotAllowed","message":"L\u2019utensilit\u00e0: %s","innererror":{"code":"The request has been blocked.","message":"The request has been blocked."}}} var url = ''; $.get(url, function (data) { console.log
