But when you consider a WiFi hotspot connection, which typically isn't very fast.

Imagine getting a file download speed of between 50-60kbps. We are a group of creative professionals blogging about everything from design and technology to life and family. And the reality is that many of the health and safety regulations that we are accustomed to in the West are unlikely to change overnight, despite government efforts to push them through. It is, in fact, unclear what impact this has on the design world. The obvious answer is that the pandemic has narrowed design, reduced design budgets and made the demand for time, in a world of working from home, even more extreme. However, there are several more subtle changes that are happening that we now need to take into account. In the coming weeks we will see how some of the design world will react to the coronavirus, the demands it places on production and the effect COVID-19 will have on the design and creative industries in general.
