Q: Selecting from HashSet using DynamoDB in Java I have a hashset of user IDs whose corresponding data I want to load to AWS from a Java application. So I have following DynamoDB structure: Table: User Attributes: ID, name, surname, etc... And for data I have a set of following values: hash set: [1,2,3,4,5,6,7,8,9] which needs to be stored in the user table. Is there a way to select rows from a DynamoDB table using a hash set instead of a real column? I am using Java SDK and want to write a method which will select all the records from the table where ID is inside the hashset. Any help will be appreciated.

A: If your hash set of IDs is never going to exceed 5 elements, this may be slightly more efficient: // hashset of IDs HashSet ids = new HashSet(5); // map of ids -> row Map rowMap = new HashMap(); for (Integer id:ids) { AttributeValue attributeValue = new AttributeValue(); attributeValue.setS(attributes.getAttribute("s")); attributeValue.setN(attributes.getAttribute("n")); rowMap.put(id,

attributeValue); } queryRequest.setFilterExpression(new ConditionExpression("ID IN :ids")); queryRequest.setExpressionAttributeValues(new MapAttributeValues(new ExpressionAttributeValues("s", attributes.getAttribute("s"))));
queryRequest.setExpressionAttributeValues(new MapAttributeValues(new ExpressionAttributeValues("n", attributes.getAttribute("n")))) queryRequest.
